7. Old Business:

7a. State Dept. of Transportation: Discussion of Goshen Rotary:

Representatives from the State DOT, engineers, Marissa Pfaffinger and Edward Sabourin referred to the two reconstruction options designed to slow traffic passing through the rotary. This meeting was held with Goshen public participation to ascertain the public's support. Goshen residents were in attendance both in-person and via "zoom".

Entering the rotary and exit speeds were studied, to bring forth the best solutions for the redesign. The goal of both designs is to reduce speeds to 25 mph entering the rotary; improve site lines. A DOT study found that 7,100 vehicles per day went through last year and this year 6,800 have been counted. The subject of massive tractor trailer trucks going through was also covered by the study along with "Rotary Ahead" signage.

The costs of the redesigns are being borne by the federal government – 80% with state funding of 20%. An ad-hoc vote rendered everyone voting in favor for the options presented by the DOT, with only 1 resident rejecting. Federal approval process will take 2 – 3 years; the construction will take another 1- 2 years.
